

ONE SALIENT FEATURE OF EACH NAKSHATRA

BY ANURADHA SHARDA

INTRODUCTION

Anuradha Sharda has more than 20 years in the field of The Occult. What started out as a hobby in school, developed as a passion and became a part of life as the years progressed. In addition to being a Tarot Card reader who runs her Tarot classes she also teaches Nadi Nakshatra, a practical method of timing of events through Nakshatra and is the teacher for the Nakshatra and Basic Courses.

In this book, we have dealt with each Nakshatra and a dictum relating to it. Every Nakshatra has so many features that it can be mind boggling. Here an attempt has been made to take one feature of each nakshatra and give examples of it.

This gives us an insight into the nakshatra at a very basic level and develops an interest in the nakshatra.

An added advantage is that the examples can also be used for working on other characteristics of the Nakshatras as given in other books of the author.

Achard taught classes to have a large number of sugar beet growers and the specially developed sugar beets became available for everyone. Due to Archard's financial difficulties as a result of several fires in 1806, his refineries were declared bankrupt in 1815. He died, destitute, in 1821 in Wohlau. His life's work was carried on mainly by French industrialists such as at the refineries of Matthias Christian Rabbethge. In mid-19th century in America, Achard's grandson Anton William Waldemar Achard successfully promoted beet sugar production in Michigan according to a later descendant, Emil Lockwood, son of Mabel Pauline Achard.

After Britain declared war on Germany in September 1939, Hepburn's mother relocated her daughter back to Arnhem in the hope that, as during the First World War, the Netherlands would remain neutral and be spared a German attack. However, her uncle was killed by the Germans.

After her uncle's death, Hepburn, Ella and Miesje left Arnhem to live with her grandfather, Baron Aarnoud van Heemstra, in nearby Velp. The van Heemstra family was also seriously financially affected by the occupation, during which many of their properties, including their principal estate in Arnhem, were badly damaged or destroyed.

OBSERVATION-

Tina Turner is an American-born Swiss singer-songwriter, dancer, actress, and author. Turner rose to international prominence as a featured singer with Ike Turner's Kings of Rhythm before recording hit singles both with Ike and as a solo performer. One of the world's best-selling artists of all time, she has been referred to as The Queen of Rock 'n' Roll and has sold more than 200 million albums and singles worldwide to date. She is noted for her energetic stage presence, powerful vocals, career longevity, and famous legs. According to Guinness World Records, Turner has sold more concert tickets than any other solo performer in history.

The daughter of a sharecropper, she picked strawberries and cotton as soon as she was able. While her mom and dad fought, she wandered in the fields, a loner playing in nature with the wind and the animals. When she was three, she and her older sister, Alline, were farmed out to grandparents for two years. In 1950, her mom left and three years later, so did dad. In her autobiography, "I, Tina," Avon Books, 1987, she wrote that "I cried and cried but it didn't do any good. It never does, you know."

She began singing with Ike Turner's group, "The Kings of Rhythm" in the late '50s, where Ike renamed her Tina.

Ike beat her up for 16 years before she finally got out in 1978 after a particularly brutal beating in the back seat of a limo. She took years of abuse, Ike's coke habit and blatant infidelities, finally running away with 36 cents in her pocket. She lived on food stamps but would take nothing from Ike, hiding from him while she repaid her protectors by cleaning their houses.

A Buddhist, she tried to live according to her faith, raising their kids and worked as hard as she could. Even when Ike sent the four boys to live with her, along with their bedding and pets but no money, she stayed focused on what she needed to do. Furs, jewels, limos were a thing of the past and she was back below square one. A near-fatal bout of tuberculosis several years earlier also had some debilitating after-effects. Turner began booking dates gradually, in debt and struggling upward for six tough years before she began hitting the charts in 1983. In 1984, she hit the top of the charts in England with her album "Private Dancer." In the U.S., the album remained in the top 100 for more than two years and ultimately sold 10 million copies around the world.

#5 MRIGASIRA AND SPIRITUAL QUEST

EXAMPLE-ARTHUR CONAN DOYLE

OBSERVATION-

Sir Arthur Ignatius Conan was a British writer best known for his detective fiction featuring the character Sherlock Holmes. Originally a physician, in 1887 he published A Study in Scarlet, the first of four novels about Holmes and Dr. Watson. In addition, Doyle wrote over fifty short stories featuring the famous detective.

The Sherlock Holmes stories are generally considered milestones in the field of crime fiction.

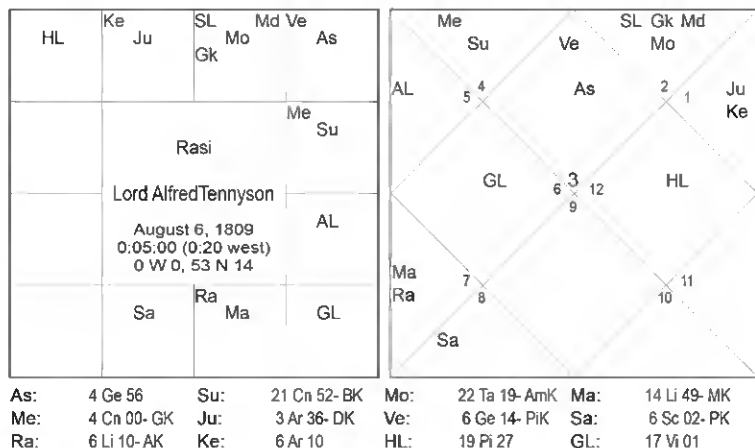

In Southsea in 1887, influenced by a member of the Portsmouth Literary and Philosophical Society, Major-General Alfred Wilks Drayson, he began a series of psychic investigations. These included attending around 20 seances, experiments in telepathy and sittings with mediums. Writing to Spiritualist journal Light, that year, he declared himself to be a Spiritualist and spoke of one particular psychic event that had convinced him. Though he later wavered, he remained fascinated by the paranormal. He was a founding member of the Hampshire Society for Psychical Research in 1889 and joined the London-based Society for Psychical Research in 1893. During 1916, at the height of World War I, a change came over Conan Doyle's beliefs prompted by the apparent psychic abilities of his children's nanny, Lily Loder Symonds. This, combined with the deaths he saw around him, made him rationalise that Spiritualism was a "New Revelation" sent by God to bring solace to the bereaved. The New Revelation was the title of his first Spiritualist work, published two years later. In the intervening years, he wrote to Light magazine about his faith and lectured frequently on the truth of Spiritualism.

War-related deaths close to him certainly strengthened his long-held belief in life after death and spirit communication.

EXAMPLE- LORD ALFRED TENNYSON

OBSERVATION-

Towards the end of his life Tennyson revealed that his "religious beliefs also defied convention, leaning towards agnosticism and pandeism" In a characteristically Victorian manner, Tennyson combines a deep interest in contemporary science with an unorthodox, even idiosyncratic, Christian belief. Famously, he wrote in In Memoriam: "There lives more faith in honest doubt, believe me, than in half the creeds." In Maud, 1855, he wrote: "The churches have killed their Christ".

idea that he was chosen to do something. That's why the first image in Rocky is the picture of Christ."

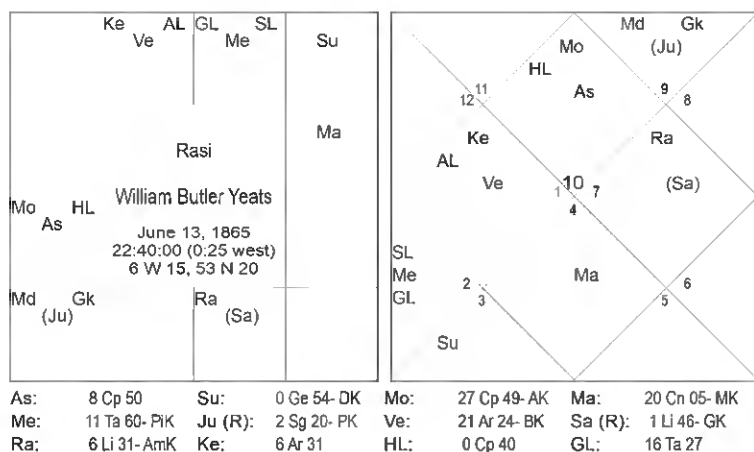

STALLONE'S REAWAKENING

Stallone says that in the past, his ego and worldly temptations took over in his life and he went spiraling out of control. Rather than living like Rocky with some sense of ideal, he didn't. "I thought I was entitled to things. You're not entitled to anything," Stallone says. "You are what you leave behind." Stallone says the more he goes to church, and the more he turns himself over to the process of believing in Jesus and listening to his Word and helping him guide his hand, he feels as though the pressure is off himself.

EXAMPLE-WILLIAM BUTLER YEATS

OBSERVATION-

William Butler Yeats was an Irish poet and one of the foremost figures of 20th-century literature. A pillar of both the Irish and British literary establishments, he helped to found the Abbey Theatre, and in his later years served as an Irish Senator for two terms. Yeats was a driving force behind the Irish Literary Revival along with Lady Gregory, Edward Martyn and others.

Yeats had a life-long interest in mysticism, spiritualism, occultism and astrology. He read extensively on the subjects throughout his life, became a member of the paranormal research organisation "The Ghost Club" (in 1911) and was especially influenced by the writings of Emanuel Swedenborg. As early as 1892, he wrote: "If I had not made magic my constant study I could not have written a single word of my Blake book, nor would The Countess Kathleen ever have come to exist. The mystical life is the center of all that I do and all that I think and all that I write."His mystical interests—also inspired by a study of Hinduism, under the Theosophist Mohini Chatterjee, and the occult—formed much of the basis of his late poetry.

Celia Franca, was the founder of The National Ballet of Canada (1951) and its artistic director for 24 years.

She began to study dance at the age of 4 and was a scholarship student at the Guildhall School of Music and the Royal Academy of Dance. She made her professional debut aged 14.

She caught the attention of choreographer Walter Gore and successfully auditioned for Marie Rambert's ballet company in 1936.

In 1941, aged 20, she was recognized as one of the finest dramatic ballerinas in the Sadler's Wells company. In 1947 she joined the Metropolitan Ballet as a soloist and ballet mistress. It was there that she began choreographing for television, creating the first two ballets – Eve of St. Agnes and Dance of Salomé – ever commissioned by the BBC.

In 1950, a group of Toronto balletomanes asked Franca to start a Canadian classical company. A determined woman who thrived on challenges, she did the impossible in only 10 months – while supporting herself as a file clerk at Eaton's department store, she recruited and trained dancers, staged some Promenade Concerts, organized a summer school, gathered a talented artistic staff and whipped her uneven but enthusiastic new company into shape for its opening on 12 November 1951.

"British musician, singer, songwriter and actor, best known as the lead vocalist and a founder member of the Rolling Stones. One of the pop world's biggest stars, he has appeared in over 20 films, including movies based on his life and band. While continuing to tour and release albums with The Stones, Jagger has also had a successful solo career since 1985."

Complex, unsettled, always controversial, he has sampled multiple relationships, brief affairs with some of the groupies who follow the band and two marriages.

Jagger has been married (and divorced) once and has also had several other relationships.

In May 1976 he first met tall, blonde, Texan model Jerry Hall. They re-met the following year at Studio 57 and began their romance. Steady companions from 1978, they had four children: Elizabeth (born 2 March 1984), James (28 August 1985), Georgia (12 January 1992) and Gabriel (9 December 1997). Hall and Jagger married on 21 December 1990 in a Hindu beach ceremony in Bali.

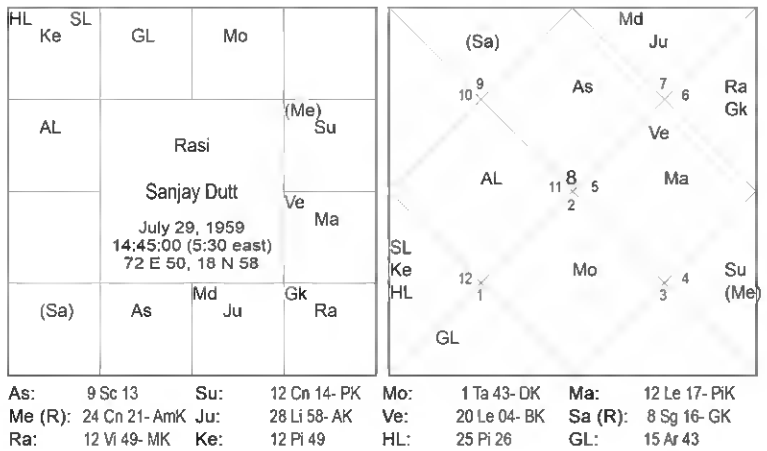

Their 21-year relationship folded when rumours that Brazilian model Luciana Morad was carrying his baby hit the papers on 12 January 1999. Those rumours proved true when, on 27 July 1999, the results of a blood test were announced, proving that Morad's baby, Lucas (born 18 May 1999), was Jagger's child.

Hall, who weathered Jagger's indiscretions over the years with disgruntled tolerance, had had enough and filed for divorce in mid-January. When Jagger made a feeble attempt to declare that they had never been legally married, a judge remarked that "Living together with four children sounds married to me." Hall sued for a reported $50 million but settled out of court with Jagger the day their trial was supposed to start for $15.5 million. Their marriage was annulled in August 1999. – ADB

Rajiv Gandhi was an Indian politician who served as the 6th Prime Minister of India from 1984 to 1989. He took office after the 1984 assassination of his mother, Prime Minister Indira Gandhi, to become the youngest Indian Prime Minister at the age of 40.

Rajiv Gandhi saw a beautiful Italian girl sitting in a Greek restaurant in the Cambridge and fell for her instantly. This Italian girl was none other than future Mrs. Sonia Gandhi. A very charming Rajiv Gandhi asked the owner of the restaurant, Charles Antoni, to place him closer to her for which the owner demanded quite a sum.

"The first time I saw Sonia I knew she was the girl for me. I found Sonia very straightforward and outspoken, never hiding anything. She is very warm and understanding as a person."

Their happy married life was brutally cut short by his assassination.

American actress and wife of noted actor Tom Hanks.

In 1981, Rita Wilson met Hanks on the set of TV comedy Bosom Buddies (1980-1982). They were reunited in 1985 on the set of Volunteers.

Wilson and Hanks married on April 30, 1988. They have two children, Chester, born August 4, 1990 and Truman, born December 26, 1995.

She is often credited with being the driving force behind actress-playwright Nia Vardalos's movie deal for My Big Fat Greek Wedding, which became the highest-grossing independent film of all time and for which she served as a producer. Since Wilson is a Greek-American, Wilson was convinced that she could relate to the situation in which the film's main character, Toula, found herself. Her confidence in Vardalos paid off tremendously. A sequel, My Big Fat Greek Wedding 2, which Wilson co-produced and in which she had a supporting role, was released in 2016.

Raised in a working class Roman Catholic family, Cherie's father, actor Tony Booth, abandoned the family when she was two in June 1956. She subsequently grew up with a mother who always worked as the family's main provider.

Attending law school, Cherie scored at the top of her class and the top of her year in the bar exam. She met fellow law student Tony Blair in May 1976, both competing for the post of intern at a barrister's chamber. Initially dismissing him as a lightweight ex-public schoolboy, her romantic interest was awakened at the chambers' Christmas party that year. They married in March 1980.

The Blairs have three sons and one daughter: Euan (born 1984), Nicholas (born 1985), Leo (born 2000), and Kathryn (born 1988).

With her wages, she sent her sister Bronia to Paris to put her through the Sorbonne. They planned that once Bronia was established, Marie would join her in Paris for her turn. After four years, in 1891 she joined her sister in Paris to study math, physics and chemistry at the Sorbonne. She proved a brilliant student with an early interest in the magnetic properties of steel. Within two years she received her license in science with the highest marks of her class.

She was drawn to fellow scientist, Pierre Curie by their mutual interest in magnetism and devotion to science. They met at the home of a Polish physicist who was staying in Paris and married on 7/26/1895 at a simple civic ceremony.

Their early years were very hard. In 1898, after they discovered radium, Marie had a struggle of four years of toil which finally resulted in the extraction of one-tenth of a gram of radium from one ton of uranium mine waste, one of the epic stories of science.

His footballing career was marked by injuries, causing him to remark later in life, "Perhaps I was doomed when it came to football." In mid-1984, Ramsay had a trial with Rangers, the club he supported as a boy. He seriously injured his knee, smashing the cartilage during training. Ramsay continued to train and play on the injured knee, tearing a cruciate ligament during a squash game.

Ramsay recalled that, "the pain of being released on the back of an injury" was only assuaged many years later, "after receiving [his] third Michelin Star", and concluded that, "without the upset at Ibrox, I would not be the chef I am today."

While attending the Cannes Film Festival in France in 1955, Kelly met Prince Rainier of Monaco, who was taken by her elegance and charm. When the Prince was visiting friends of the Kelly family in the U.S. at Christmas of that same year, another meeting was arranged with the enticing young actress. Rainier proposed shortly after Christmas and after Kelly accepted, the conditions were explained. After all, a Prince choosing a wife was a matter of state. First, Grace had to come with a dowry. Although Rainier held vast wealth in real estate, he was cash poor. After Father Jack's initial livid objection, which nearly canceled further proceedings, he finally relented. Being related to a European Prince would assure him entry to Philadelphia Main Line society. Second, Grace would have to pass a physical exam proving she was able to bear children. Third, any children of the marriage would belong to him and Monaco should there be a divorce; Kelly herself could claim no legal custody. After all contingencies were agreed upon, the date was set.

On 18 April 1956, Kelly wed Rainier in the cathedral in Monaco, an affair of state and the first media social event to be televised.

Fiery instinct, futuristic outlook, indomitable will, and a burning passion was all that Dhirubhai Ambani had when he set out to work his way for a living in the lanes of Bombay, way back in 1958. From being a spice dealer to a cloth merchant to a textile producer, it was his overarching ambition, inexhaustible energy and never-say-die spirit that led him through all the obstacles to emerge as the business tycoon of India. He established and laid the foundation for Reliance

In the "Miss Italy" contest, she won the title of "Miss Elegance." She was not quite 15 when she met Carlo Ponti, the producer, when he was the judge on a contest. He signed her to a contract and began her grooming for a film career.

Ponti was married and 21 years her senior, but it was the start of a lifelong partnership that produced most of her five dozen films and their two sons. They had to turn in their Italian passports and become citizens of France, where they were legally married in 1966.

A very emotional person, Loren has fought to have a marriage and family. After two miscarriages, her first son, Carlo Jr., was born in 1968 (now an orchestra conductor) and second son, Edoardo, was born four years later (now a film director). She always gives priority to family and to love.

Dhirubhai Ambani was born in a Modh baniya family to Hirachand Govardhandas Ambani and Jamanaben in the village of Chorwad in the district of Junagarh. His father was employed as a school teacher while his mother was a homemaker.

Raised in frugal living conditions, right from an early age, he was aware of the insufficiencies that the family dealt with due to the meagre income of his father and large expenses.

Leaving aside his political pursuits, he concentrated on academics and gave his matriculation exams. However, due to the ill health of his father and impoverished living condition of the family, he had to give up on his education and take up a job offered in Aden.

Curious to learn the tricks of the trade, he soon started working simultaneously for a Gujarati trading firm. It was there that he learnt accounting, book keeping and preparing shipping papers and documents. He also acquired the skill of dealing with banks and insurance companies.

Soon he took to speculative trading, in all sorts of goods and made profitable deals, a fact which made his competitors think of him having a knack for trade. He was then promoted to the oil filling station at the newly built harbour. It was therein that thoughts of building a refinery first shaped his dream.

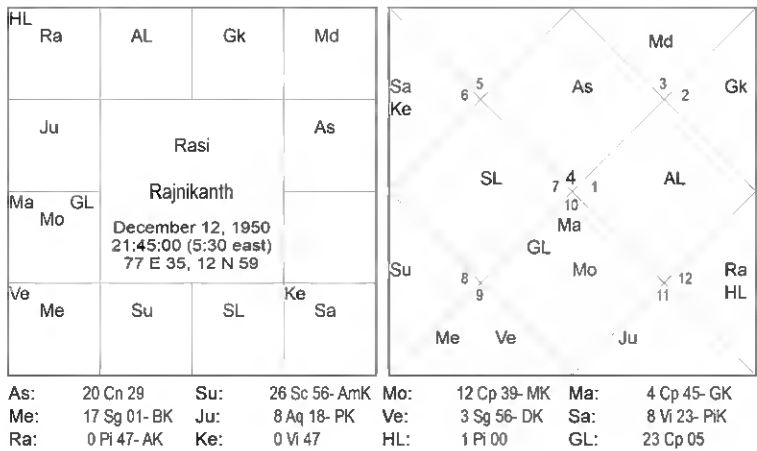

His foresightedness and ability to judge helped him crack two most hefty deals in the yarn market that earned him the flush of capital required for the future Reliance Textiles. Playing on his idea of establishing a manufacturing unit, he soon realized the same by setting up a textile mill in Naroda, Ahmedabad in 1966.

Sir Isaac Newton PRS was an English mathematician, astronomer, theologian, author and physicist (described in his own day as a "natural philosopher") who is widely recognised as one of the most influential scientists of all time, and a key figure in the scientific revolution. His book Philosophiæ Naturalis Principia Mathematica ("Mathematical Principles of Natural Philosophy") first published in 1687, laid the foundations of classical mechanics. Newton also made pathbreaking contributions to optics, and he shares credit with Gottfried Wilhelm Leibniz for developing the infinitesimal calculus.

After presenting his reflecting telescope to the Royal Society, he sent them his paper on the theory of light on 6 February 1672, meeting with uncommon applause and assuring his place in history.

Known as an absentminded professor, a reclusive scholar in academia, Newton was suddenly a public figure. He was appointed Master of the Mint in 1700 and spent the rest of his life involved in politics. On 30 November 1703, he was elected President of the Royal Society and knighted by Queen Anne on 16 April 1705.

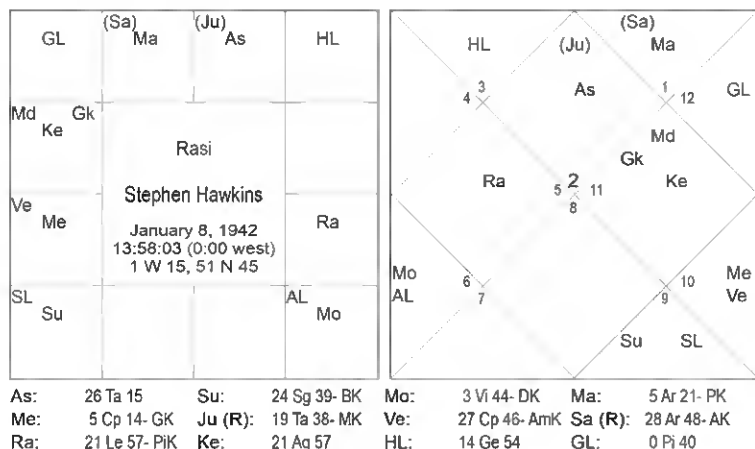

In the early 21st century, papers that had been purchased by Keynes were studied and "translated" from Newton's cryptic notes; this new review of his notes revealed that Newton had very likely experimented with alchemy and some of his experiments and formulae are being recreated by scientists now.

EXAMPLE-STEPHEN HAWKINS

Stephen William Hawking CH CBE FRS FRSA was an English theoretical physicist, cosmologist, author, and director of research at the Centre for Theoretical Cosmology at the University of Cambridge. He was said to be the most intelligent man of his times.

His scientific works included a collaboration with Roger Penrose on gravitational singularity theorems in the framework of general relativity and the theoretical prediction that black holes emit radiation, often called Hawking radiation. Hawking was the first to set out a theory of cosmology explained by a union of the general theory of relativity and quantum mechanics. He was a vigorous supporter of the many-worlds interpretation of quantum mechanics.

Hawking had a rare early-onset slow-progressing form of motor neurone disease (also known as amyotrophic lateral sclerosis "ALS" or Lou Gehrig's disease) that gradually paralysed him over the decades. Even after the loss of his speech, he was still able to communicate through a speech-generating device, initially through use of a hand-held switch, and eventually by using a single cheek muscle.

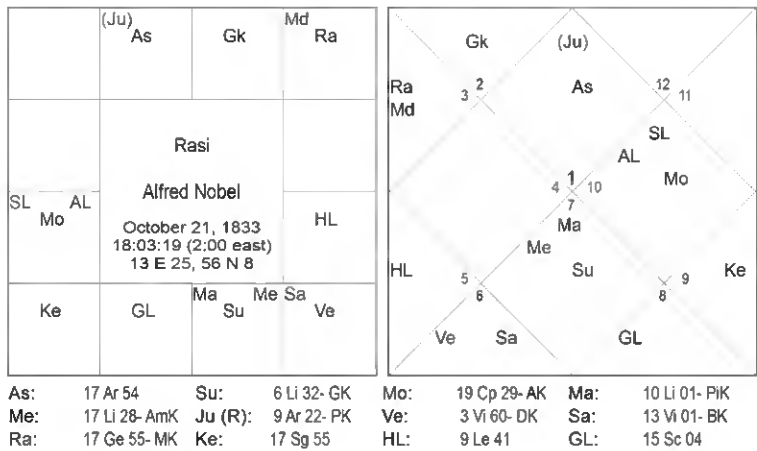

Hawking's mother was born into a family of doctors in Glasgow, Scotland. Both his parents attended the University of Oxford, where Frank, his father read medicine and Isobel his mother read Philosophy, Politics and Economics.

He died on 14 March 2018 at the age of 76.

By the 1870s he was one of the richest and most famous men in Europe, called the "Dynamite King" though in truth, he had some 355 patents. From his HQ in Paris he created a network of dynamite factories throughout the world, always insisting on humane and generous policies toward his employees. Investing shrewdly, he owned oil fields in Russia and many business interests in America. A civilized man, he cultivated a sense of honor and decency, dressing well and living a cultured lifestyle.

In 1896, he founded the Nobel prizes, leaving a fund of $9 million in his will for the awards. He had a stroke at age 63 and died on 10 December 1896, San Remo, Italy. The first Nobel Prize was given out five years later, on 10 December 1901.

OBSERVATION-

Abraham Lincoln (February 12, 1809 – April 15, 1865) was an American statesman and lawyer who served as the 16th President of the United States from March 1861 until his assassination in April 1865. Lincoln led the United States through its Civil War—its bloodiest war and perhaps its greatest moral, constitutional, and political crisis. In doing so, he preserved the Union, abolished slavery, strengthened the federal government, and modernized the economy. Lincoln has been consistently ranked both by scholars and the public as among the greatest U.S. presidents.

He was married to Mary Todd. Mary was known to cook for Lincoln often. Since she was raised by a wealthy family, her cooking abilities were simple, but satisfied Lincoln's tastes, which included, particularly, imported oysters.

OBSERVATION-

Diana, Princess of Wales was a member of the British royal family as the first wife of Charles, Prince of Wales, the heir apparent to the British throne. She was the mother of Prince William, Duke of Cambridge, and Prince Harry.

Diana was born into the Spencer family, a family of British nobility with royal ancestry and was the youngest daughter of John Spencer, Viscount Althorp, and Frances Roche. She grew up in Park House, situated on the Sandringham estate, and was educated in England and Switzerland. In 1975—after her father inherited the title of Earl Spencer—she became known as Lady Diana Spencer.

After attending Institut Alpin Videmanette (a finishing school in Rougemont, Switzerland) for one term in 1978, Diana returned to London, where she shared her mother's flat with two school friends. In London, she took an advanced cooking course. She took a series of low-paying jobs; she worked as a dance instructor for youth until a skiing accident caused her to miss three months of work. She then found employment as a playgroup pre-school assistant, did some cleaning work for her sister Sarah and several of her friends, and acted as a hostess at parties. Diana spent time working as a nanny for the Robertsons, an American family living in London, and worked as a nursery teacher's assistant at the Young England School in Pimlico. In July 1979, her mother bought her a flat at Coleherne Court in Earl's Court as an 18th birthday present. She lived there with three flatmates until 25 February 1981.

Diana gave her sons wider experiences than was usual for royal children. She rarely deferred to the Prince or to the Royal Family and was often intransigent when it came to the children. She chose their first given names, dismissed a royal family nanny and engaged one of her own choosing, selected their schools and clothing, planned their outings, and took them to school herself as often as her schedule permitted. She also organised her public duties around their timetables.

She came to prominence in February 1981 when her engagement to Prince Charles was announced to the world.

OBSERVATION-

German-Swiss-American scientist, a physicist who developed the theory of relativity in 1905, and the general theory in 1916, laying the groundwork for 20th century physics and providing the essential structure of the cosmos. He was awarded the 1922 Nobel Prize for his contributions to theoretical physics, especially for his discovery of the photo-electric effect law. His name has been synonymous with genius, and the scientific definitions of the modern age--ranging from the Bomb to space travel, electronics and quantum physics - all bear the stamp of his conceptualizations.

Einstein was a passionate, committed antiracist and joined National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) in Princeton, where he campaigned for the civil rights of African Americans. He considered racism America's "worst disease," seeing it as "handed down from one generation to the next".As part of his involvement, he corresponded with civil rights activist W. E. B. Du Bois and was prepared to testify on his behalf during his trial in 1951. When Einstein offered to be a character witness for Du Bois, the judge decided to drop the case.

In 1946 Einstein visited Lincoln University in Pennsylvania, a historically black college, where he was awarded an honorary degree.

As for his affiliations, Einstein was primarily associated with non-religious humanist and Ethical Culture groups in both the UK and US. He served on the advisory board of the First Humanist Society of New York, and was an honorary associate of the Rationalist Association, which publishes New Humanist in Britain. For the seventy-fifth anniversary of the New York Society for Ethical Culture, he stated that the idea of Ethical Culture embodied his personal conception of what is most valuable and enduring in religious idealism. He observed, "Without 'ethical culture' there is no salvation for humanity."

He was honoured by the Government of India with the Padma Shri in 2003 and the Padma Bhushan in 2010.

For years together, before the release of his film Qayamat Se Qayamat Tak which attained cult status, Aamir Khan consistently put in hard efforts in film making, learning the tricks of the trade and patiently evolving himself as an actor.

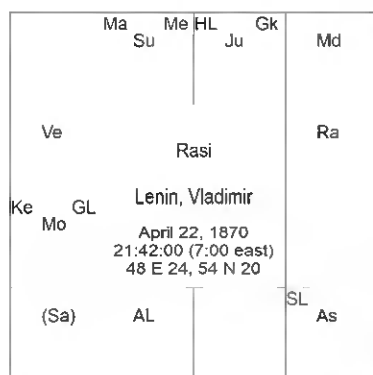

He started working from the age of 16 and even till date, all his movies are very different and his evolution as an actor is steady and he tenaciously maintains his stand of not letting his performance or output slip even after attaining great heights as an actor.

OBSERVATION-

Russian leader of the communist movement and the founder of the Soviet Union, a Marxist revolutionary shaped into his radical political views by living under the Tsarist government in Russia. A fanatical believer in the doctrine of Karl Marx, he spread it throughout Russia and tried to put it into practice as an international revolutionary leader.

In 1903 at the Russian Social Democratic Labor party in London, he was able to split the professional revolutionaries into Bolshevism lead by him and Menshevism. Exploiting Russian vulnerabilities during WW I, Lenin came back to Moscow and took control of the country. During the twentieth century, Lenin was considered the father of modern Soviet Russia.

Lenin's parents were teachers instilling leftist views on their middle-class Russian family. His older brother Alexander was hanged in 1887 for his participation in plotting against Tsar Alexander III. Lenin's movements were under surveillance by the Tsar's police while he attended his law studies at the University of Kazan. He was arrested in December 1895 for revolutionary activities. In 1891, he completed his law studies and worked for the poor in Samara, Russia until 1893, when he moved to St. Petersburg and participated in revolutionary protests. He was arrested in December 1895 and sent to Siberia for three years. On his release, he went abroad for the next 17 years visiting radicals in Switzerland, Paris, London and Germany. In 1902, he published his book, "What is to be Done."

Knowing the Russians were ripe for domestic agitation, the German government sent the revolutionary in a private train from Switzerland to Sweden in which he entered Russia in 1917. In November 1917, he seized power of the state and sued for peace with Germany and began the new Communist government. Lenin became the Chairman of the Communist Party and quickly established the secret police to suppress all opposition. The treaty of Brest-Litovsk with the WW I German government was accepted in March 1918. After the ensuing Russian Civil War ended in 1921, he established his New Economic Policy. A fanatical believer in the doctrine of Karl Marx, he tried to spread Marxist theory and put it into practice throughout Russia.

He was married to Marxist revolutionary, Nadezhda Krupskaya whom he met in St. Petersburg in 1893.

OBSERVATION-

Prof John James Rickard Macleod, FRS FRSE LLD was a Scottish biochemist and physiologist. He devoted his career to diverse topics in physiology and biochemistry but was chiefly interested in carbohydrate metabolism. He is noted for his role in the discovery and isolation of insulin during his tenure as a lecturer at the University of Toronto, for which he and Frederick Banting received the 1923 Nobel prize in Physiology or Medicine. Awarding the prize to Macleod was controversial at the time, because according to Banting's version of events, Macleod's role in the discovery was negligible. It was not until decades after the events that an independent review acknowledged a far greater role than was attributed to him at first.

Born in Wisconsin, she grew up in California and married James L. Dixon, an auto dealer, in 1939. Later when they moved to Washington, D.C. she became a real estate executive. Her reputation began to grow from the readings she gave people and she gained national attention in late 1963 with her prediction of J.F.

Kennedy's assassination. Her famed clients were said to include Ronald Reagan whom she told that he would one day be President.

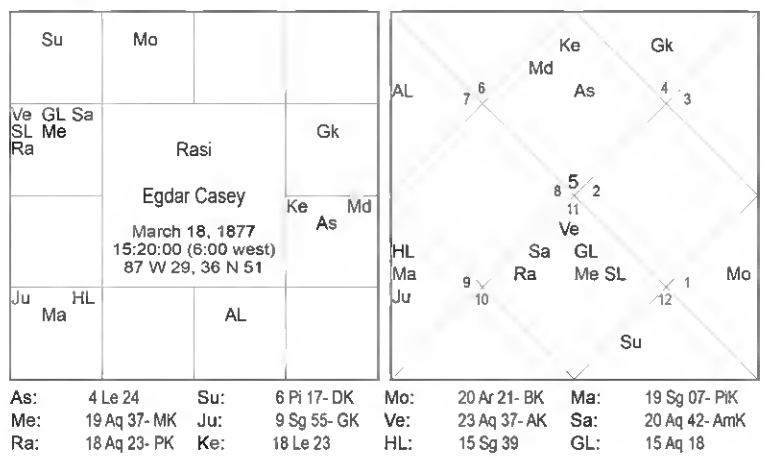

Dixon was the author of seven books including an autobiography, an astrology cookbook and a horoscope book for dogs. EXAMPLE-EGDAR CASEY

OBSERVATION-

American mystic known as "The Sleeping Prophet." While in a sleep state he could discuss history, geology, metaphysics, philosophy and medicine. He gave approximately 30,000 life-readings and medical diagnosis to people during his lifetime. He founded a hospital, a university and the A.R.E. (Association for Research and Enlightenment) in Virginia Beach, Virginia that promotes research on his readings and continues his work.

As a child he had a strong desire to become a preacher, which he never formally realized. He prayed to be able to help others, especially children, and had a spiritual vision in 1890, at age 13, that told him he would be able to accomplish this dream of service. A lady bathed in light told Cayce to sleep with his head on his books, and then he would be able to remember what was in them. This was at a time when he was having trouble in school, and his father was apparently beating him for not being able to spell the words in his lessons correctly. Soon after, he showed signs of special abilities when he found that he could sleep on his school books and have photographic recall of every page, and he seems to have continued using this ability throughout his early life.

Throughout his life, Cayce claimed no special abilities and did not capitalize financially or otherwise on his gifts. The readings never offered a set of beliefs or "religion" to be embraced, but instead focused on the idea that every person should test in his or her own life the principles presented. Though Cayce was a devout Christian who read the Bible through once for every year of his life, his work emphasized the importance of comparative study of belief systems from around the world.

EXAMPLE- BOB HUNTER

OBSERVATION-

He was a relentless visionary and a mystic storyteller – the Canadian Bob Hunter infused the young Greenpeace with a magic that lasts to the present day.

From day one, the long-haired, bearded journalist, who introduced the Cree Indian myth of the “Warriors of the Rainbow”, forced those around him to think big – and then go one step further. For Hunter, the limits of the practical or the probable didn't count: Nothing was ever impossible.

Fascinated by media theory, the often-audacious Hunter wanted to change the world with "media mindbombs" – consciousness-changing sounds and images that would blast around the world in the guise of news. The approach worked brilliantly. Greenpeace quickly became a media household name around the world.

Hunter's spirit of courage, defiance and media-savviness continues to define Greenpeace up to the present day. The organisation he co-founded and shaped in a way few others have, will always be blessed with his spirit.

Bob Hunter died of prostate cancer on 2 May 2005, aged 63.
